Letter of Support

Last November, the Cox-Henderson administration, as part of the One Utah Roadmap Health Security strategic priority, released a call-to-action to the healthcare community in Utah. They asked that a new public-private collaborative entity comprised of community, employer, healthcare, and patient advocates be organized that would lead, collaborate, and support the innovation of Utah's payments and care delivery. This private-public partnership will aim to do what no one organization can do on their own: enact the kind of action to drive system-wide change.

Over the past few months, the following individuals across Utah's healthcare landscape have voiced their support to these concepts of private-public partnership to ensure that healthcare in Utah is sustainable and equitable.
